Every year the Redstone OPSEC Committee searches for dynamic speakers, and I can say that Ms. Snodgrass truly "hit it out of the ball park" with her briefing on Social Engineering Defense at Team Redstone OPSEC Day 2016. Attendees' comments were universally positive, and we hope to host Ms. Snodgrass again in 2017.

Glenda was wonderful! Her briefing was very informative and she had large groups of ship yard workers hanging on her every word -- no small task. We received lots of fantastic feedback. VTHM Security hopes we are able to bring her back for more employee training in the future.

My task as a committee member was to line up speakers that could provide relative informative information to fellow NCMS Members. Glenda Snodgrass came highly recommended so I wasted no time contacting her and confirming her a spot. We looked forward to meeting Glenda and hearing her speak. Boy, did she not disappoint! Her presentation was energetic and packed with useful, eye-opening information that every NCMS member could take back to their facility to protect against cyber intrusions, for both business and personal security.
